MORE TALK, SAME OLD PROBLEM

Representatives of the Carmel City Council and the Business Association had another exploratory session on parking yesterday.

No positive action was taken but according to City Attorney Tom Perry the association's representatives agreed to study the matter further and present recommendation to the council.

GROWING PAINS

Mayor Horace D. Lyon will talk on "Incorporation" at the September 29 meeting of Carmel Unincorporated.

The meeting is set for 4 p.m. in the Carmel High School cafeteria.

Village By-Lines

MAN'S SLINGSHOT CONFISCATED-- Police confiscated the slingshot of a resident --described as very sane -- after a neighbor woman living in the vicinity of Lobos and Third complained that he was shooting rocks at her window. Confiscation was based on city ordinance which prevents the shooting of slingshots in the Village.

EXPERIENCE TEACHES-- Wife of resident reported to police that her husband was accosted by a man and woman in a blue tone car. After driving up beside him and asking the location of a resident, woman suggested that he come closer so that she could touch him. Wife reported her husband refused because two years ago the same incident happened to him and his wallet was lifted.

NOCTURNAL VISITOR-- Resident living vicinity of Monte Verde and Fifth reported that someone was in her living room. Police found oppossum in the room.

FLASHLIGHTS AT NIGHT-- Resident reported that someone across the street was using a flashlight. A thorough search of the area around San Carlos and Thirteenth did not show up light.

RESIDENT TAKEN-- Resident reported that after eating a meal at the Wharf a man stopped her in the parking lot near the Wharf, demanded that she pay him $50 for damages done to his car. She did not remember colliding with car. Man then "closed his fists" and she paid him $15 since she was afraid. Case referred to District Attorney.

DRIVING SERVICE--Young professional woman will drive for you, locally or on trips. References furnished. Ph. 2-7604.

A CONGRESSIONAL VACANCY

We found Charles Teague almost everywhere at the Republican convention this week. And, in fact, found many local Republican leaders of various factions introducing him around like a football hero after the big game.

Although Mr. Teague has made several pre-candidacy campaigns to the Peninsula, this was our first opportunity to meet him. We quickly arranged to have lunch the next day where he would be happy to tell us of his political beliefs.

Mr. Teague lost no time the next day over pre-lunch cocktails informing us that he had not declared himself a candidate for Congress, as reported by a San Francisco paper.

When we showed some surprise, he was quick to report that he "was anxious to run" and would declare officially as soon as he was assured endorsement by Republican party powers in the District.

"I won't buck them," he said.

This aroused in us an interest as to why Mr. Teague was interested in running for Congress.

He confided: "I have no definite program or interest in putting over any program. I know this may sound trite, but I am just interested in good government."

He then settled down to tell us that he was "what might be called an Eisenhower Republican, who sometimes votes for Democrats." He was unable, however, to recall when.

CHARLES TEAGUE

He went on, "The Administration has made a move for some efficiency in government but there is plenty of room for more."

Pressed for details on these points, he added:

"I have not studied the problem and it would be foolish to give arbitrary answers."

As we moved from the bar to the dining room, Mr. Teague, who is 44, declared that this was not his "so called maiden voyage in politics."

To start with the beginning of his political background, his maiden vote was cast for Hoover in 1932 while he was at Stanford Law School.

After graduation in 1934 he went to Los Angeles and opened a law office. He returned to Ventura after serving stateside with the Air Force as a ground officer during World War II.

Since then he has practiced law in Ventura, residing in Ojai with his charming wife and three children. In addition to a married daughter he has a teen-aged son and daughter.

In 1948 he made his first political bid for the State legislature, and was trounced by Assemblyman Cooke. He blames the Truman landslide of that year for his defeat. Since then he has confined his interest to community affairs and until recently was chairman of the Ventura Community Chest.

The thought of running for Congress, he said, came to him after Bramblett was indicted last May and it became "evident that he would not seek re-election."

Teague said he was withholding judgment on Bramblett: "A man is innocent until he is convicted.

"I voted for him and supported him but you could not say I was a strong campaigner in his behalf."

With the approach of the chicken salad we got down to a discussion

YOUNG REPUBLICANS HOLD POW-WOW

Young Republicans, who ten months ago tasted their first victory in their political lifetime, moved their headquarters here last week for a first major post-election pow-wow.

The State policy conference had two sides to it.

There was the impressive, smoothly run convention--a feather in the caps of hardworking Peninsula leaders; speeches by party leaders; enthusiastic discussions and a $12.50 plate dinner. Dr. Lyon White, president of Mills College, and Senator Thomas Kuchel were the dessert. Their speeches were able whether you agreed or disagreed with them.

But there was another side to

MILK MAID

At the Santos Corona home in Carmel Valley a rather peculiar situation has developed.

While Tabby, the Coronas' long-haired cat, goes out hunting, Lani, their two-year-old collie dog, nurses Tabby's kittens.

The arrangement seems to be perfectly satisfactory to Lani, maybe not so satisfactory to Tabby, who is too afraid of the dog to interfere.

It all started as a joke. The Coronas were sitting in their yard one day, and Lani, who had recently lost a puppy, was lying beside them. Then the kittens tumbled into the scene. "Why not put the kittens with Lani and see what they'll do?" said somebody.

To the kittens, it was no joke. "They got the idea right away," says Mrs. Corona. "Now it's regular practice. The dog has full charge. She even washes the kittens and nudges them around like a real mother.

"At first the cat meowed for the kittens. But she won't go near them when they're with the dog. And now she seems to have resigned herself to the switch. She spends most of her time out in the fields, hunting."

the confab--the backroom rumors, deals, and overall significance.

One of the most persistent rumors around Goodwin Knight's headquarters was that Knight and Mayor Elmer Robinson of San Francisco were planning a political marriage--Knight for Governor and Robinson for Lt. Governor.

Many Knight supporters were dead against the deal. Robinson, who barely squeaked to a second term, was not regarded as a political asset.

Probably the biggest political mistake of the convention was made by Knight, who failed to show.

Another hot rumor is that Ro-

OF MEN AND COURAGE

It is all too easy to become discouraged with the human race, faced as we are with daily evidences of Man's greed, corruption and selfishness. And so it is refreshing and thrilling to be reminded that men can also be brave, resourceful, sacrificing and selfless.

I'm led to these thoughts by Ronald McKie's THE SURVIVORS (Bobbs-Merrill, $3.00), an enthralling and inspiring story of men battling against disaster and discouragement.

It is the story of ten men who survived the sinking by the Japanese of the Australian light cruiser Perth in Sunda Strait on February 28, 1942--83 days after Pearl Harbor. Mr. McKie, an Australian newspaperman, has tracked down these ten men--officers and ratings--and has pieced together the first coherent story of one of the least known naval battles of World War II. Most of the men survived not only the sinking of Perth, but long and horrible years in Japanese prison camps.

In the closing days of February, 1942, the Java Sea had become virtually a Japanese lake. Sumatra had fallen; Java was next on the list. Only a small mixed fleet of Dutch, American and Australian ships floated athwart the Jap advance. And this was under the command of a Dutch admiral of little experience and less sea sense. As a result the Allied fleet was smashed and scattered. Two ships, Perth and the American heavy cruiser, Houston (the latter with its aft guns shot away), managed to return to Tanjon Priok, the port of Batavia. There they were partially refueled from a dwindling oil supply and from there they sailed on the evening of February 28th, bound out through the narrow Sunda Strait, headed for the Indian Ocean and relative safety.

John F. Allen, one of the top writers on the San Francisco Examiner staff, is a former West Coast editor of Time Magazine. He reviews books exclusively for this publication.

Late that night in Sunda Strait a brief radio message brought word to the world that Perth and Houston had engaged the enemy. And that was the last that was heard of either until many months later when survivors began to piece together the incredibly gallant action against tremendous odds.

What Perth and Houston ran into there in the narrow strait was a Jap fleet bent on invading Java. Acting as escort to 56 transports were four heavy cruisers, two light cruisers, at least thirty destroyers, an aircraft carrier, torpedo boats and other ships. Perth and Houston had no air cover, no other help, yet before the battle was over the Japs swore they had tackled at least one battleship, maybe more. Before they went to the bottom, Perth and Houston seriously damaged at least six destroyers, damaged one heavy cruiser, sank a seaplane carrier and four transports. At the end Perth and Houston were reduced to hurling practice shells at the Jap destroyers which surrounded them like a pack of jackals, pouring in torpedoes and shells at point-blank range, and later shooting and depth-charging the men in the water.

But this is not so much the story of how two gallant ships fought their last fight, as it is the personal histories of ten men of Perth, ten men speaking for the 200 who survived out of a crew of 682. Mr. McKie, aided by excellent maps and a chart of Perth, has done a wonderfully exciting job. We see first where each of the ten was when the action began, learn what each was thinking, planning and remembering. Dog tired, they were, having been almost continuously at battle stations for days, Yet, when the shells began to fall around them, when the torpedoes lifted Perth time and again high out of the water, each man did his job superbly. Not like fearless automatons, but with fear in their guts--fear that was conquered. And here McKie is at his best:

for each man admits to his human fears, no man puts on a facade of thoughtless bravery.

There was Torpedo Gunner L. C. Smith, a veteran of many battles, who drowned fear in duty. With the ship sinking under him, he went aft to his depth charges and carefully pulled the primers from them all. Had he not they would have exploded as Perth sank, killing by concussion every man in the water.

There's the wondrous picture of Engineer Lieutenant F. O. Gillan, riding astride a plant, stark naked except for a topee he had found floating in the water. He floated near a life raft jammed with exhausted, wounded and beaten men, covered with fuel oil and discouraged beyond belief. In the light of the early dawn, this ridiculous, scarecrow figure doffed his topee in a courtly gesture and said, "Good morning, gentlemen." It was a long minute before anyone of the half-dead men responded. Then oil-stiff mouths cracked into grins, a snicker started, and suddenly the men on the raft were roaring with laughter. A sailor stood precariously in the raft, bowed, and said: "Doctor Livingstone, I presume." These are men, and who is to say that this moment of laughter in the teeth of death didn't save a half dozen lives.

There's a chaplain, naked and filthy with caked oil, standing in a leaking life boat and committing a dead man to Christ and the sea.

And men jumping into the sea to make room for wounded on a raft; and others hiding their own wounds to bring cheer and help to a shipmate.

These, I say, are men, and McKie has made them live as no fictional characters could. To read this book is to feel a new faith in Man's essential qualities of generosity and self-sacrifice.

And of Man's ability to endure almost endless torture and discouragement in the light of some symbol of his avid desire for life--a God, a wife, a son, a job, or even a glass of beer in an Australian pub.

SETTING THE CAMERA

TED TINLING AND EMELIA SOSIC IN REHEARSAL

"I Am a Camera," John Van Druten's play based on Christopher Isherwood's "Berlin Stories," will open at the Wharf Theater, Monterey, October 2.

Barbara McMahon and Robert Carson will play the leads. Others cast are Emelia Sosic as Natalia, Ted Tinling as Fritz Wendell, Dee Olivetti as Mrs. Watson-Cortnidge, Jean Levinson as Fraulein Schneider, and Nick LeFeuvre as Clive.

Tom Brock will direct.

"The House of Bernarda Alba" will have its final performances at the Wharf this weekend. Performances of the tragedy were suspended last week because Marian Stebbins, who plays Bernarda, suddenly fell ill. "Blithe Spirit" was substituted.

BACH, ANYONE ?

Preliminary auditions for the secong Annual Junior Bach Festival in Berkeley, California, will begin in January, with the judges hearing any composition written by Johann Sebastian Bach.

For further information, Peninsula students may write to 2555 Buena Vista Way, Berkeley.

AUDITIONS FOR "BRIGADOON"

Auditions for all roles in the Wharf's forthcoming production of the musical "Brigadoon" will be held at the theater at 1 p. m. Saturday and Sunday.

Don't forget the Carmel Pistol Club's shoot next Sunday, starting at nine in the morning and continuing until six--NRA classifications rule. There will be fifty-four medals and a trophy given--the trophy for the aggregate, of course. Many entries have been received but you can enter at the time you shoot, if you wish.

One of the season's first turkey shoots will be held at Tarpey Flats on October 4 by the Monterey American Legion. For the benefit of anyone who does not know how these are conducted here is the word.

---

NAME THIS COLUMN and you will win a new Coleman camp stove and a three-year subscription to the Carmel Spectator or the Pacific Grove Tribune; and Midweek, of course.
Address entries to Carmel Pacific Publications, Box AO, Carmel; Box 120, Pacific Grove.

Shooters fire a measured distance at a six-inch plate for a fixed charge per shot. Breaking the plate gets you a turkey. Two can be one on the first range and one on the handicap which is the same range but a smaller plate. All shooting is offhand and it depends on the outfit giving the shoot as to whether iron sights or scopes can be used. Usually the Legion has allowed only iron sights.

There will be another shoot at the Swiss Rifle Club at La Gloria on the 11th October. This is one of the finest ranges and one of the most scrupulously run shoots on the coast. They usually have a very fine barbecue dinner, either chicken or steak at a very low price, and there are stone buildings, plenty of shady seats and even a small grandstand for the ladies. If you want to have fun, and eat high on the hog, don't miss this one.

Also at this shoot, the range is accurately given and there is no attempt to chisel, which is by no means true at some of the others. In this connection I might add that it is my intention to take with me a fine military range finder to other shoots this year, and if there is any lying done about ranges or any other of the snide tricks which have been pulled in previous years, you will be able to read about it here with names and dates. In the words of the old gentleman who protected his property with two savage hound dogs and a shotgun which he said was not loaded with sofy pillers: "Damn if I ain't tired of this here hell-raisin'."

IN FOR LIFE

EVERY MONDAY NIGHT, from 7:30 to 9:30, a group of professional artists, tempered with a sprinkling of serious students, gather at John and Pat Cunningham's studio at the Carmel Art Institute in Seven Arts Court. They draw from life to keep their talents sharpened. Among the nationally known in this teacherless class are Cartoonist Bill O'Malley (top), Painter Jean Kellogg (above right) and Painter Harvey Williamson.

National Champ To Play Here

The eyes of U. S. golfdom turned to Pebble Beach this week, with the announcement yesterday by Gene Littler, newly crowned U. S. Amateur Golf Champion, that he'll shoot for the State Amateur crown.

The young San Diego Airman putted his way to the U. S. championship last Saturday in Oklahoma with a 1-up victory over Dale Morey.

The 165-pound Californian will arrive here Sunday with his wife and will start play Monday at Cypress Point in the seven-day State Amateur.

He will head a field of 807 of the State's best amateur golfers. Stiff competition is expected from Daniel J. Silvestri, last year's winner, Kenneth Venturi, 1951 champion, and Bruce McCormick, winner in 1945-46.

The semi-finals in the Championship flight will be Saturday, October 3, followed by a 36-hole final on Sunday, October 4.

REPUBLICANS

bert Barnes of Orange County, a young Republican, is slated to replace MF as national committeeman. If this comes about, it would be a victory for Pattee forces.

Murray Chotiner, campaign manager for Nixon, had some sage political advice for Democrats.

Asked what he thought about the Democrats' strategy--the Democrats are saving Ike's program and that Ike is a great guy.

"They're stupid. All they are doing is building Ike for re-election. But why should I tell them."

Nos. 28 & 29 - The Argyll Twins

Two cooks for the price of one: that's what you get when you receive an invitation to a meal at Argyll Cottage in Carmel.

"I do the desserrrts," says Maude Sutherland, with a Scotch burr which more than half a lifetime in the United States has done nothing to erase.

"And I do the meats," admits her sister, Violet Ballantyne, in accents just as strong.

"And we both love to cook because we both love to eat," they say, almost in unison.

The Argyll twins, as some of their friends call them, are that rarity, a set of grown-up identical twins who, in middle life, still live together, dress alike and are almost impossible to tell apart. Each has been married (and each is a widow), but when they were married they lived in the same city block, were as inseparable as ever they'd been in childhood.

"We're a perrrfect team," one of them - we're not sure which - will tell anyone who asks. "Oh, the adventures we've had! Some day we're going to write a book about it."

"But I don't know if anyone would read it," says the other.

Then they both have "a fit o' the giggles." When one of them comes up for air, she'll wipe her eyes and say, "You musn't mind us. We have a sense of humor that makes us laugh and laugh over things other people don't find so funny.

"We always have a lot of fun. We used to play some awful tricks on peddlers. One of us would meet them at the front door and the other at the back, and they wouldn't know where they were.

"And people stop us on the streets and say, 'Are you two twins, by any chance?' And we say, 'Could be. Could be.' And then they say, 'How darrrling! How just too darrrrling!' Isn't that lovely?"

When they bought Argyll Cottage, a newish, modern-type structure set down in a pine-filled canyon at the end of Lopez Street, the twins thought it "too small for company" but didn't care. "Maude and I do love to keep house," says Violet. "Even a little house. And we have our painting - Maude does watercolors and I do oils. And we do hooked rugs, and Maude has a nice sewing business. So we thought, when we came to Carmel where we didn't know many people, we would just keep busy and not entertain.

"But the way it's turned out, we have company most of the time. People ask us for dinner, and we ask them back, and though we haven't much room, everyone seems to enjoy it."

One of the dinner or luncheon specialities for which Maude - no, Violet - has received many appreciative comments is her

CHEESE SOUFFLE

Melt a scant 1/2 cup butter in saucepan. Blend in 2 or 3 tablespoons flour, salt to season. Add 1 cup milk. Cook over low heat until thick, then add 1/2 cup cheese (sharp cheddar) and blend.

When cool, add yolks of 3 eggs, beaten, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites of 3 eggs.

Pour into greased casserole. Bake 25 minutes in 350-degree oven.

Scones, of course, are an Argyll Cottage must. This is how the Argyll Twins make them:

SCOTCH CREAM SCONES

4 cups flour
2 tsp. baking soda
2 tsp. cream of tartar
Salt
A little sugar
2 tsp. butter

To the above mixture add enough sweet milk to form a soft dough. Cut in small rounds, place in greased baking pan, bake in medium oven (350 degrees) for 15 minutes.

Simple, isn't it! And so is this:

SCOTCH PLUM PUDDING

1 cup bread crumbs
1 cup flour
1/2 cup suet, chopped fine
1/2 cup large raisins
1/2 cup currants
1/2 cup sugar
1 T. orange peel
1 apple chopped fine
Juice of one lemon (and some grated rind)
1/4 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. ginger
1/2 tsp. cinnamon
1/4 tsp. nutmeg
1/4 tsp. baking powder
1 egg, well beaten
Enough milk to moisten it a little
A little port wine or brandy

Mix all together, well. Put melted butter in steamer and sprinkle with sugar. Put pudding in steamer. Steam for 4 hours or longer - the longer the better. Serve with a brown sugar sauce or hard sauce.

"At home," says one of the twins, "Mother would cut the left-over pudding in slices, brown them in butter and serve them with roast beef. Oh, it was lovely!"

"At home" was Glasgow for many years, later the town of Dunoon in Argyllshire. Violet and Maude were the youngest of a large family in which, says Violet, "culture" was emphasized. "We were taught to appreciate nice things - nice china, good paintings, good music. It was thought just as important for us to go to the symphony concert as to go to school.

"Glasgow is a big city. And gloomy. We're much happier in America. America offers more for people. And we do love Carmel. We lived in Kansas City for many years - much against our will - because our husbands' work was there. Then a sister of ours died here - Mrs. Tom Dunn - and Maude came out to look after the effects. She loved Carmel, so I came out too.

"The beauty of Carmel is that everybody does something. And the weather - the weather's much like Scotland! We're great travelers - we've crossed the seas many times - but we like this best."

It hasn't taken the sisters long to become a part of Carmel community life. They're members of the Church of the Wayfarer and of the Carmel Woman's Club, where, at the parties, Maude's cherry pie is gobbled up as fast as it's served. But when you ask Maude for the recipe she becomes suddenly stubborn. "No," she says, firmly. "No."

"We love to cook," add Violet, her eyes twinkling. "But there are some things we won't tell a soul."

WATCH THE BIRDIES

ALEXANDER SPRUNT JR.

The first of the season's Audubon Screen Tours will be offered by the Monterey Peninsula Audubon Society at Sunset School Auditorium, Carmel, at 8 p.m. on Wednesday, September 30.

The program will feature the presentation of a film, "Wing Havens," by Alexander Sprunt, Jr., member of the staff of the National Audubon Society.

In color, the film pictures wildlife, both bird and mammal, in various sanctuaries in the United States, with footage made by some of the country's foremost natural science photographers.

Sprunt, a South Carolinian, has had field experience in 47 states and lectured extensively.

HERE COME THE SLEEK JOBS

Sports cars from all over the state will be converging on the Peninsula this weekend for the California Sports Car Gymkhana Championships at Fort Ord.

The host club, the Pebble Beach Sports Car Club, has scheduled the event for Sunday, 9 a.m. on the South Parade Grounds. There will be no admission charge for spectators.

A barbecue dinner will precede the Gymkhana on Saturday night at the Hunt Club on the Monterey County Fair Grounds, where a bar will also be in operation.

A HOUSE FOR $3,000

Bill and Amy Nelson are building their own home.

Amy keeps things running and Bill does the actual construction work.

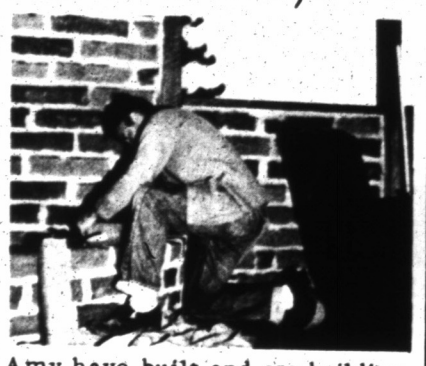
When they are done, their 800-square-foot house will have cost them about $3,000, a third for the lot, two thirds for building materials.

This almost unbelievably low figure is possible only because:

1 - Bill is a very ingenious fellow who can think of all sorts of money-saving shortcuts;

2 - They started building in June, 1952, long before the new County building code was passed, a code that makes it darn near impossible for a fellow who wants a house in an urban area to save much money by building his own;

3 - They are building in "Raspberry Flats", that woodsy hillside section in Del Monte Park just over the Pacific Grove city limits where many young people like Bill and Amy have built and are building their own homes and gladly swap tools and labor.



Bill, a native of San Diego, is now a third-year teacher in the Pacific Grove school system. He has a sixth grade class at David Avenue School which is just a little way down hill from where he lives.

He's 30. Amy is 29. From looking at Bill you'd never think that this stocky, robust guy ever studied philosophy at Columbia University, and that, after war service in the Navy, he bummed around Hawaii and Europe with his attractive young wife.

But his interests are quite apparent. As he mixes cement, he's got a radio going, and listens to "high-brow" music on high fidelity. This music is occasionally interrupted by the still quite low-brow yells of his one-year-old son, Eric.

Bill and Amy and Eric moved into their home last December. They put in a pot-belly stove to keep warm until the hooded fireplace is finished. (It isn't finished yet.)

They've got a living room, a kitchen, a bedroom and a bath, and lots of storage space in the hollow created by the cement-block foundations of their redwood-post adobe abode.

Bill bought the redwood locally, which is cheaper and also helpful in that lumber companies are ready with plenty of good advice to amateur customers who want to put up their own houses.

"Also," says Bill, "I think the local wood is better than the redwood you get up north. It's tougher, has a good deal more strength than the standard redwood."

Bill's home is of adventurous design. Its front wall slants toward a cantilevered roof. The house looks like a place that welcomes the sun. And it does: it's placed along an east-west axis, facing south so that the living room has sunlight all day long, first through the slanted south windows and then through the west windows that overlook the sunset and the sea.

The other rooms get sunlight too, thanks to the clerestory windows jutting above the living room's slanting roof. These clerestory windows, Bill explains, are "derivative from Gothic cathedrals, as a matter of fact."

Here are some of the shortcuts Bill is using to build his house cheaply and keep maintenance costs at a minimum:

• He availed himself of a Sears, Roebuck service by which the store furnishes a complete set of plumbing tools to the amateur home builder and puts at his disposal an expert who draws up plumbing diagrams and comes around on occasional inspections to see that everything is done just right.

• Instead of using whole adobe bricks, which come eight inches wide, he's using half bricks, four inches wide, thus cutting that cost in half. This is okay, Bill says, because adobe is just used for fill-ins anyway, and the four-inch thickness will give sufficient insulation.

• He waterproofed the adobe by using a trick he learned in impregnating ski togs: he dissolved paraffin in gasoline and painted the waxy juice on the outside of the adobe; the gasoline evaporated, leaving a film of paraffin. He hopes this'll keep the water out this coming rainy season.

• To save money by using single-wall construction without at the same time marring the design with regularly-spaced studs, he placed the 12-inch wall planks in vertical shingles, with the shingle edge facing leeward so as to shed rain. "This," explains Bill, "gives us a one-inch single wall construction with a two-by-two studding every two inches where the planks overlap, and that way we get away from the hideous sight of having a two-by-four hitting you in the face every four feet. It's just as sturdy and it looks good--a clean sweep of textured wall."

• He is using empty beer cans--very sturdy as most people know--as invisible supports for his raised fireplace. They are extremely light and thus don't put much strain on the foundation.

• He planted the narrow lot with native plants and shrubs to save on water bills.

With the house almost finished and quite livable already, Bill and Amy have only spent about $1,700 on materials. They expect to spend $300 more, on a spend-as-you-earn basis.

of some current issues.

What is your opinion of Senator McCarthy, of Wisconsin?

"I don't really know anything about him. There seems to be some criticism about his methods. But it is difficult to say when you really don't know the man."

What do you think about the proposed Bricker Amendment?

"I haven't given it any thought, but I would be inclined to favor it. But, of course, I haven't yet heard the opinions of those opposed to it."

Mr. Teague stressed several times that he was not trying to dodge any questions but was "trying to answer them honestly and to the best of my ability."

On the question of public versus private development of Columbia River power, Mr. Teague said: "I'm inclined to favor private enterprise except where the project is too big to be financed by private enterprise. But then again," he said, "I am not too well informed on the subject."

Mr. Teague said that he was "generally against price fixing and farm subsidies except where they are necessary to keep the farms going."

As to Eisenhower emergency aid to Texas ranchers this past summer, he answered:

"I don't know much about this situation, but then, if it was an emergency, I guess it was necessary."

Mr. Teague hastened to point out that he was not a rancher himself, although his family has one of the largest lemon ranches in Ventura County. It was originally developed by his father.

"My brother runs the place and I really have nothing to do with it except being a stockholder."

Mr. Teague also pointed out that he was independently wealthy and would not need the Congressional salary to live on.

"However," he admitted, "I am not a man who believes wealth implies honesty in an office seeker."

Questioned for his opinion on the Congressional reduction of President Eisenhower's Air Force appropriation, Teague said:

"I have a lot of confidence in what President Eisenhower says, but at the same time I don't know much about this issue."

Several questions concerning this congressional district were then asked. Included was whether he would support the long proposed development of Santa Barbara harbor as a safe small boats harbor.

Mr. Teague said that he was "unfamiliar with the problem." He assured us that, starting next January--should he be a candidate--"I will tour the district constantly and become well-informed on all problems concerning the area."

Mr. Teague will be around for about a week. He is an entrant in the State Amateur Golf Tournament --"just a fifth handicap player who likes to play the courses."

He will speak at a Republican rally at Highlands Inn Tuesday.

Mr. Teague, who is a very personable fellow, assured us at the close of the interview not to hesitate to call him if we should think of any other questions while he is here.

"I will be very happy to answer them as best I can."

is the dope, straight from the Monterey Fish and Game office. The hunter is required to retain possession of the horns and hide until ten days after the season closes. The tag must be left attached to the horns. Hide and horns do not have to be kept together. In other words you can send the hide to be tanned and the head to another place to be mounted.

GIRVETZ TO SPEAK

Dr. Harry J. Girvetz, professor of social sciences at the University of California at Santa Barbara, will speak at tomorrow night's regular meeting of the Monterey Peninsula Democratic Club.

The meeting will start at 8 p.m. in State Memorial Hall, Prescott and Hawthorne Streets, Monterey.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here but if you will write me I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

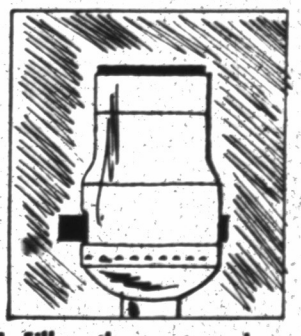
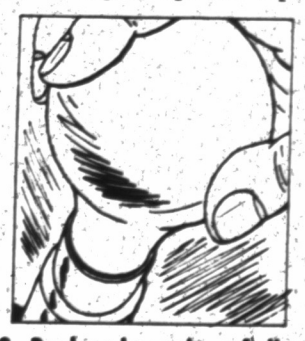
Three easy ways to better living..

with better lighting

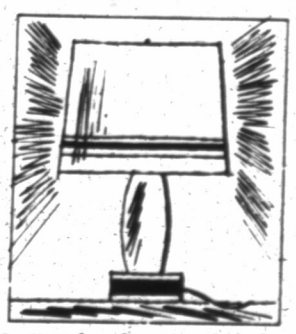
Surveys show most homes are under-lighted! But it's easy to enjoy brighter, better living—with lighting that picks up the color of your furnishings—guards precious eyesight—perks up your spirits.



1. Fill-up the empty sockets. Good lighting is inexpensive eye-insurance, for light bulbs cost so little—and electricity is cheap in California.



2. Replace burned-out bulbs and keep a supply of spares on hand. New, smaller 150 and 100-watt bulbs now fit almost any fixture.



3. Use bright-enough bulbs. 100-150 watts . . . especially in your kitchen fixtures, study lamps, hallways, garage, and bathrooms.

Free of extra cost...a 150-watt bulb

. . . free when you buy five 100-watt bulbs! Just present the coupon sent with your September or October

P. G. and E. bill at any store displaying this sign. Treat your family to Better Light for Better Sight—today!

CARMEL NOTES

Mrs. B. Chandler Howard, 97, a frequent visitor to Carmel in the 1870's when she was an art student in San Francisco, has since spent many decades in the Far East and now lives in Laguna Beach, returned here last week to spend a few days with her granddaughter, Mrs. Gustave Erbe of Whitman Circle. Among those who called on her during her visit here were Mr. and Mrs. James C. Rockwell of Hatton Road whom she had met in the Philippines many years ago.

Vacation time this year - a little later than for most people - means a flight to Mexico for Kay Smits, Peninsula Community Hospital head. She'll fly to Mexico City on October 9, branch out from there for two weeks. It's her first south-of-the-border trip, she says.

A one-man show of paintings by Frank M. Moore, Carmel artist, will open October 3 at the Carmel Art Association Gallery, and on Friday evening, October 2, there will be an invitational reception and preview at the gallery. The exhibit will remain through the 15th.

Carmelites who remember Lt. Col. Franklin V. Johnson will be interested in seeing this picture of him, taken recently in Korea.

Col. Johnson, who was with the First Infantry at Fort Ord, and whose wife still lives at 12th and Monte Verde, is now KMAG advisor to the commandant of cadets at the Korean Military Academy.

Joyce Timmons, popular model, and Bert Taylor of Taylor & Vial, Builders, have set the date: they'll be married Saturday, 1 p.m. at the Church of the Wayfarer.

Sherry Hicks will be bridesmaid, Herb Vial best man.

After a Las Vegas honeymoon, the Taylors will occupy a home overlooking the Carmel Mission.

Bert was formerly International Speed Skating Champ and a member of the 1932 Olympic Skating Team.

Barbara Hofmann of Burlingame and Blair McDonald.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Dean of Pebble Beach were hosts to U. S. Senator Thomas Kuchel and his manager, Ewing Haas, over the weekend.

• • •

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stanton had an informal luncheon on Sunday to honor Mrs. Cummins Catherwood of Philadelphia, house guest of the Frank Works of Monterey.

Here to play in the California Seniors Golf Championships at Pebble Beach, General Gilder D. Jackson of Coronado, with Mrs. Jackson, is spending the week with the S. F. B. Mosses.

A 30-Year Dream Coming True!

He used to stand on the curb in front of his father's house—and watch the Cadillacs sweep majestically by—carrying fine ladies and gentlemen on happy excursions.

That's when the dream started in his heart—and refused to leave.

Six times, before today, he has signed his name to an application for a motor car title—and, on every occasion, he knew it was a compromise.

But not this time! He is taking the keys to a beautiful 1953 Cadillac—and his 30-year-old dream is coming true.

And what a fulfillment it will be, as he rolls out into the highway and takes the longest way home!

First of all, he'll get those quick glances of approval which tell him the dream he dreamed for so many years is still in the hearts of others.

And then the car's great performance will begin to unfold itself.

Silence—almost complete silence—just the soft sound of the wind slipping by . . . the quickest, easiest response to the accelerator he has ever imagined . . . steadiness and roadability and handling ease that remove all but the merest effort from managing the car.

And, oh, what marvelous comfort! It's like sitting in the easiest chair conceivable—and moving smoothly and effortlessly through space.

And then, almost before he knows it, he'll be home—and in the driveway—with the family rushing out with the final voice of confirmation.

Man—this was worth waiting and working for!

And, of course, the years and the miles will add their proof as to the wisdom of his choice: dependability—long life—economy of upkeep and operation—and unusual resale value.

Yes, there is every practical reason for owning a Cadillac—as well as every personal one.

Better come in and see us today. It's probably easier than you think to make your dream of Cadillac ownership come true.
